KIYOMIZU TEMPLE

World Heritage Site "Kiyomizu Temple"

The main hall, famous for its spacious outdoor, cliff-like balcony, supported on an intricate, several-story-high wooden structure of pillars, is a designated National Treasure. Kiyomizu means pure water. Much of the large temple area offers outstanding views of the city.

KINKAKU-JI TEMPLE

[Golden Pavilion]

World Heritage Site Kinkaku-ji Temple"

Kinkakuji was built in 1397 by Shogun Ashikaga Yoshimitsu as his retirement villa. The gardens are designated as a special national historic and scenic site. The "Sekka-tei" tea house, located in the garden, is famous for its staggered shelves made of bush clover wood, and its Nanten alcove pillar.

TOJI TEMPLE

World Heritage Site Toji Temple"

Toji-temple was built in supplication for national peace at the time Heiankyo was constructed, and was located on the east side of Rajomon Gate, main gate of the city. The temple on the west side, Saijo Temple was burnt down in 1233. It consists of Kodo(Lecture Hall), Kondo(Main Hall), Nandaimon Gate and Goju-no-to(Five-storied pagoda).

FUSHIMI INARI SHRINE

Fushimi Inari Shrine

The head shrine of more than 40,000 Inari shrines throughout Japan, Fushimi Inari Shrine is one of the oldest in Kyoto. Enshrining the god of good harvests and good business, the shrine is crowded with people during the New Year and on the first day of each month.
